Kip's HTML 5 color pallet and counter

Kip is very pleased to announce that we have created a javascript file to make the HTML 5 standard for the counter and the color pallet usable across MS Edge, Firefox, and Google.

Below are two screen shots of our blog page's menu bar that feature the HTML 5 standard.

To learn more about how to use these and to get the latest information regarding our HTML standardization project please visit our projects page or contact us.
